

Promoting Marxism in the Name of Equality: A warning to pastors and church leaders

The playbook for Cultural Revolution was written long ago. Proven tactics strategically executed have consistent results because human nature does not change. Recognition, approval, and belonging are easily used to deceive people away from the Word and make them consistently choose relationship over truth.

Tyrants (Marxists, Socialists) hate the Bible because it teaches Liberty, exposes tyranny, and gives the courage to stand for Truth and justice. Social Engineers manipulate the masses by redefining words to change culture. Social Engineers use the Dialectic Process that includes well-proven steps designed to move people from a belief in absolute truth to a belief in relativism. Revolutionaries (Anarchists) use deceitful Dialectic Processes to bring about destructive Cultural Transformation and establish their own kingdom in opposition to God's (Yahweh's) Kingdom.

Critical Theory (CT) is an un-Biblical, divisive, and anti-Liberty philosophy that deceptively gets people to voluntarily embrace the ideas of Marxism into daily life. Critical Race Theory (CRT) is Critical Theory applied to racism. Black Lives Matter (BLM) embodies CRT. When Secular Humanism, the belief that man is the center of his own universe, was accepted into our public schools, the door was opened to Cultural Marxism, which normalizes redistribution of wealth and centralization of government control.

Religious people tend to be reactionary in that they only respond to the actions of others. Those who seek first the Kingdom and His righteousness look to fulfill the dominion mandate (Genesis 1:28) by being strategic and setting the agenda.

While religious people think from a religious framework, tyrants (Marxists, Socialists) strategize how to gain power via governmental structures both civil and religious. Tyrants primarily use issues to gain power, either by capitalizing on a legitimate grievance (the issue) or creating an issue and presenting themselves as the solution.

The innocent masses think that the issue is the problem, and when they support the revolutionary, they mistakenly think they are part of the solution, never realizing: The issue is never the issue. It is always about the Revolution. What is the Revolution? To dethrone God (Yahweh) and enthrone the all-powerful, all-knowing, all-encompassing State as god. How do you know this is true? Because, no matter the problem, Marxism is the solution. No matter the question, Marxism is the answer.

It makes sense that dis-educated and undereducated people who have been tragically underserved by government schools would be so frustrated they would be enticed by the unrealistic promises of the Revolutionaries who want to destroy Constitutionalism and implement worldwide totalitarianism.

But what about the highly-educated pastors who should know enough history to know that Socialism has never brought the solutions promised? In fact, Socialism (just a nice word for Communism) is the cause of untold misery, sorrow, death, destruction, and devastation. The evidence is easily documented everywhere it has been tried.

How can someone know Communism is slavery and promote it anyway? Consider this first of 3 possibilities:

1. They have been educated to believe that:

- Centralization is the solution (when it is actually part of the problem)
- Civil government can manage their affairs better than they can themselves (because they are not taught individual self-government)
- The current system is flawed (but in reality, it is because the divinely-inspired Constitutional system is not being properly applied)
- Civil government's redistribution of wealth is the only fair way to show compassion to all the citizens (but Biblically, according to the parable of the talents, wealth goes to the best steward)

Government redistribution of wealth is innocently accepted as the solution when, in reality, redistribution increases poverty. People have been educated to believe Socialism is good, but have never taken the time to look into the facts or seek alternatives. They are the victims of selective and revisionist history that only tells part of the story – the glowing claims of Trotsky, Lenin, Mao and Pol Pot – but have not lived under their rule or studied the lives of those who have personally suffered the consequences of tyrannical ideas. Whether innocent or ignorant, the resultant suffering is still the same.

Burgess Owens, a former NFL football player, has written, Why I Stand: From Freedom to the Killing Fields of Socialism. Owens takes time to define terms, and the book is written primarily to a black audience.

“Radicalization is a process by which an individual or group comes to adopt increasingly extreme political, social, or religious ideals and aspirations that reject or undermine the status quo or reject and/or undermine contemporary ideas and expression of freedom of choice.” Owens, p. 146

Owens goes on to explain how black leaders, including the Congressional Black Caucus, have worked with white socialists to advance Marxist agendas at the expense of the people they purport to serve. “The blossoming of the ideological seed of socialism/Marxism within the urban black community has resulted in the exponential growth of crime, illiteracy, unemployment, child abandonment, abuse and abortions.” Owens, p. 146-147

The consequences of Socialism are everywhere, so why would a pastor support such an easily-documented, failed system of suffering, poverty, and tyranny?

Consider the second of 3 possibilities of how someone can know Communism is slavery and promote it anyway:

2. They have more fear of people than a fear of God. The new theologies induced out of the new dialected translations of the Bible have justified the preaching of a different gospel. This different gospel makes people feel good and tells them what they want to hear. Conviction of sin, need for repentance, or Jesus (Yeshua) as the only Way are missing. This different gospel is what Paul warned of and said don’t believe it even if Paul himself promoted it. But how do we know if it is the true Gospel?

Jesus (Yeshua) came to set the captives free. You don’t have to change the Gospel to set at Liberty those who are bound. You have to preach the Gospel – not the “social gospel,” the “compassionate gospel,” or whatever modifier is in fashion today. You don’t have to reconstruct the Gospel, liberate theology, or be the bridge to improve upon it. The true Gospel results in Liberty.

You don't have to use the circle process that exalts personal opinion and human reasoning over Biblical Truth or learn a psychology-rooted, trauma-based approach. You don't have to revise history or let the past steal your future. It is not necessary to belittle others to raise yourself up. You don't have to destroy unlimited opportunity by legislating what is really tyranny in the name of equality. The only way to legislate equality is to remove freedom of choice, thus destroying unlimited opportunity. Tyranny in the name of equality is still tyranny.

Any attempt to limit opportunity is a restriction of Liberty. Since Liberty is indivisible, the cost of the loss of Liberty is greater than any perceived reward of equality. The only way laws can enforce equal outcomes is by universal slavery. Free people, by definition, use their freedom differently. "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." (Galatians 5:1) How can anyone be set free in Christ and then think they are doing a godly thing by supporting a movement that gains power by enslaving the masses in the name of equality?

The social gospel is a euphemism for Marxism/Socialism/Communism – which all result in slavery. Don't claim to be setting the captives free when your only rhetoric is infused with the injustice and misery of slavery.

Consider this third possibility of how someone can know Communism is slavery and promote it anyway:

3. They know what they are doing. One of the young, hip (is that an un-Politically Correct word?), good looking, smartly dressed, celebrity "pretty people" that stands in the pulpit of one of our mega-churches was a political science major. Surely, he knows the consequences of these ideas. Surely, he knows that Chinese Communism under Chairman Mao resulted in the murder of 40-70 million; in the USSR under Stalin alone, 20 million, and other leaders, another 40 million; in Cambodia under Pol Pot, 4 million; in North Korea under Kim Il Sung, at least 5.6 million, and many other millions around the world since then. This suffering and death can be documented from many sources, including Owens p. 147-148.

Not to endorse everything that Red Pill University teaches, but their 8-minute video, "Deadliest Virus in the World: Communism," sums up the threat better than anything else currently available. The current situation in Venezuela is a real-time illustration of the consequences of Socialism and government redistribution of wealth. This once-prosperous self-supporting nation is left in chaos and total devastation. Citizens who can are leaving the Country in droves, with many coming to the United States. Where would we go if the United States were to fall into the hands of tyrannical totalitarian statist?

There are several lessons about Venezuela and the devastation of redistribution of wealth at PragerU.com that show the consequences of government redistribution of wealth. PragerU.com offers 5-minute edutainment videos dealing with the difference between Left vs. Leftist, Socialism in Brazil, Venezuela, and Sweden, and many others worth your time.

How should we view this new breed of pastoral leaders who are promoting Marxism from their pulpits? These duplicitous leaders insist they are not political. This non-political sleight of mind is brilliantly deceptive. In the name of not being political, they are supporting policies that actively promote abortion, are anti-family, anti-Christ, and anti-Liberty.

Here is a meme these complicit pastors and church leaders could use for self-disclosure:
“I am not a Marxist. I just always endorse Marxist ideas.”

They are getting by with this deceit since many of their church members have been conditioned to equate religious experiences and spiritual feelings with faith and don't know enough Word to know when it is watered down, when incorrect conclusions have been drawn because verses have been taken out of context to make them say the opposite of their true meaning, or un-Biblical definitions have been used to define the words in the Bible, either unwittingly or intentionally.

While we do not trust in political activity for our future, we are in the world but not of it. We understand that the Power Elites make it appear there are two sides when there is really only one agenda. Causing division and pitting individuals and groups against each other is part of the plan. Divide and conquer is always effective.

Many pastors are afraid of telling their congregations to vote. When congregants do not vote, by default, not voting is a vote for tyranny and abandonment of the culture. We are told to occupy until Christ comes, and voting is part of occupation. It is a way to have a voice. Whether you like a party's candidate or not, you have to also realize that when you vote for a candidate, you vote for the party as well. Make sure you are clear as to which party's platform more aligns with your values. Whether you like a candidate's personality or not, look at their actual legislation, the positions they have taken – either for or against abortion, concentration of power, family, etc. Remember, Supreme Court Justices matter.

So, how are these “non-political” pastors able to actively promote Marxist organizations with openly-advertised agendas that are hate-mongering, divisive, pro-abortion, anti-family, anti-Christ, and anti-Liberty?

The result of having Celebrity pastors, experienced-based church services, sensual music, self-centered and watered-down preaching is now really taking root in the culture. Have the people been so conditioned they don't know the difference, or has generations of Dialectic education finally reached the tipping point? Whatever the cause, pastors are still responsible.

To sum up my earlier 3 points, these pastors are either:

1. Ignorant – lack of knowledge or mis-educated on these matters
2. Spineless – failure to stand and speak the truth from the pulpit
3. Complicit – by associations or agreements

How could our beloved pastoral leaders have been caught in this net?

Have these articulate, capable pulpiteers sold their souls? Are they so deceived, so steeped in the Dialectic Process that they can justify their support of Marxism and the inevitable consequences of the ideas they are promoting from their pulpits? In order to climb the mountains of power, have they made covenants, contracts, and agreements to compromise the Word of God in exchange for fame, fortune, prestige, or silence about their participation in compromising activities?

What if they really believe that Marxism is more compassionate than Liberty? What if they don't know the connection between Liberty and the Gospel? What if they don't know enough of the immutable economic principles of the Word to know that the borrower is always servant to the lender, or according to the parable of the talents, the good steward will become richer and the poor steward will lose what he had? Whether they have been conditioned through the Hegelian Dialectic's negation of the negation to believe they are doing the world a favor or they are just ignorant of the Word, the result is the same: they are promoting tyranny and are responsible for their actions. This warning is an act of compassion and an opportunity for them to repent.

How can Black Lives Matter and all the highly-funded organizations like them possibly solve the problems they claim to correct? Look at their policies. They claim to be for equality, but their proposals are part of the Marxist agenda of codifying inequality. Liberty is indivisible. Legislation that gives special privilege to one group over another is not equal protection under the law. While claiming to correct injustice, they are promoting injustice by taking the results of the labor of one group and giving it to another.

When, in the history of the world has taking from the rich and giving to the poor ever made the poor rich? If you would like more clarity on why Social Justice is un-Biblical, please request our two webinars on Social Justice. Chaos, disruption, challenging of fixed beliefs (especially from parents and the Bible) are all part of getting people to accept ideas that would have been unthinkable before.

Tyrants come to power on the rubble of the monuments of the prior order. Destroying the monuments is not just about wiping out the memory of people who held to viewpoints our “woke” culture has declared abominable. That argument doesn’t hold credibility when statues of Abolitionists are being torn down. Since our churches are monuments, do these pastors really think their churches will be left alone after they endorse Marxism and ignore or excuse anarchy from their platforms?

In the un-Biblical methodology of Values Clarification, which is a form of brainwashing, the first step is the unfreezing of old values. Brainwashing is only effective when the person is disorientated and his daily routines are disrupted. After the disruption, new ideas more suitable to the new order have to be introduced. In order to be assured these new ideas are permanently embraced, there has to be a process of refreezing that needs to be perpetually reinforced.

Destroying the monuments is to destroy our cultural moorings, reset our values, and make us cry for order at any cost. Tyranny, OK; loss of essential Liberty, OK; just let me get immunized/chipped so I can get papers and go back to work or the civil government will have to keep paying me not to work.

Historically, Revolutionaries have not cared who or what was destroyed on the way to the Revolution. The process was more important than the people or property involved. There was no sorrow for the collateral damage. Even the lives of young children murdered due to lack of police protection in anarchist communities is just considered a cost of the Revolution by those community agitators who know what they are doing and have clearly defined goals of which the uninitiated are not aware.

Revolutions have many things in common. The stages can be plotted and the outcome accurately predicted. If you have never studied the steps of cultural change, you will not see how the organizers are all reading from the same playbook. After the Political Correctness phase when the people are unsettled and agitated, their areas of discontent have to be magnified. To keep the tyrant's "hero persona" and make the tyrant look as though he is a blameless hero, conflict which appears to be spontaneous is started by the puppet-master behind the scenes. Then the sub-groups are left to destroy each other in a survival-of-the-fittest kind of Final 4. Remember, in the end, only one team wins.

The leaders of each of these sub-groups believed they would be victorious and rewarded by the tyrant-hero for all the leader had sacrificed for the cause. Over the centuries, these power-desiring pawns were all defrocked or died with the same look of disbelief on their face: "Not me, I'm one of the protected class, one to whom you promised special privilege. Remember, I've proven over and over I will compromise everything – my church, my family, my country. How could you do this to me?"

Jesus (Yeshua) came to set the captive free. Has anyone ever been set free under Marxism/Socialism/Communism? Social Justice is a euphemism for Marxism. Social Justice is a substitute word for slavery. Benevolent Dictators are still dictators. Has Critical Theory ever liberated anyone from tyranny? Has Critical Race Theory ever liberated anyone from tyranny? Has Liberation Theology ever liberated anyone from tyranny? No. These ideas of Cultural Marxism are designed to justify a disconnect from the law of God and replace His law with a loyalty to human reason with a religious persona.

If it is wrong in premise, it is wrong in result.™ Marxism blesses greed, laziness, and resentment while making producers, job creators, inventors, hard-working, creative people into villains who should feel guilty for making the world a better place. Using pastors and church leaders as their useful idiots is one of the tyrant's favorite methods of getting the masses to buy into their agenda. One of the best ways to make someone a slave is to make them believe they are free.

The Biblically-based system that has brought more prosperity to the most people in the history of the world is being slandered, even from our pulpits. It is an immutable law of the universe that you get more of what you subsidize and less of what you penalize. By subsidizing laziness, immorality, and sloth, we assure ourselves of its growth. By penalizing hard-work, delayed gratification, and thrift, we can be sure there will be less.

In the name of equality, inequality is being assured. But the Revolutionaries knew that when they started. They knew that the issue is never the issue, but they will use any issue to further their cause. Racism has been a convenient and effective vehicle to drive the Marxism bus off the tyranny cliff because it is especially easy to get pastors and church leaders to buy into their false sense of justice. The problem is those riding the bus will not survive. Most of the drivers who expect to get their own kingdoms will, in the end, be destroyed. Those Liberty lovers who tried to help the masses and wanted to prevent all this devastation will die of starvation – starved of appreciation and finances. Those who could have repaired the bus will have been imprisoned for being a threat to the new collective (Communistic) order.

Who told us that equality is a righteous goal, or even possible? In the name of equality, the real agenda is inequality. Special privilege is unequal. To have equality, there has to be equality of ideas. The fear of ideas, evidenced by politically correct speech, people losing jobs, or being publicly humiliated for what they say, are hard evidence of our current condition. When only certain ideas are allowed, you already know you are living under tyranny. You can tell when just the thought of speaking the Truth can make you fearful.

Stephen Coughlin, a former CIA analyst, in his "Warning on Racism," says on page 9, "When the state defines 'truth,' dissent becomes hate speech." His extensive research on how the Dialectic applies to culture and why the complicity of religious leaders is necessary is at UnconstrainedAnalytics.org.

Liberty is indivisible. Either we have Liberty together or we are all slaves. Equality is impossible to legislate. Outcomes cannot be regulated. You don't get freedom by studying tyranny. You don't get freedom of speech by restricting ideas.

It is immutable that you get more of what you talk about. People demanding that we continue the conversation know they are fueling racism. You don't do away with racism by talking more about racism. Satan is the accuser of the brethren. Looking for constant fault fuels hate. Since it is also immutable that you become what you think about, the focus on racism introduces biases previously not there in an attempt to make us all racists. Because conflict is necessary to the tyrant, Community Organizers and Social Engineers know what they are doing. The constant upset is part of the plan. Crowds are easily manipulated, and Liberty is lost when people are driven by their emotions, losing all rationality.

Why would a pastor support Black Lives Matter? Can they claim they don't know?

"It took sports commentator Marcellus Wiley, who is black, only a few minutes to Google the Black Lives Matter movement and find major problems with the organization.

"In a three-minute address on his Fox Sports show 'Speak for Yourself' earlier this week, the anchor explained the importance of the nuclear family structure in which he grew up as well as the family he is building now within his own marriage.

"'Being a father and a husband—that's my mission in life right now,' said Wiley. 'How do I reconcile that ... with this [Black Lives Matter] mission statement that says, 'We dismantle the patriarchal practice. We disrupt the Western prescribed nuclear family structure requirement.'"

"'Children from single-parent homes versus two-parent homes—the children from single-parent homes (this was in 1995, I was reading this): five times more likely to commit suicide, six times more likely to be in poverty, nine times more likely to drop out of high school, 10 times more likely to abuse chemical substances, 14 times more likely to commit rape, 20 times more likely to end up in prison, and 32 times more likely to run away from home.'"

~ Sports Commentator Marcellus Wiley Explains Why He Won't Support Black Lives Matter,
<https://www.faithwire.com/2020/07/03/sports-commentator-explains-why-he-wont-support-black-lives-matter/>

Black Lives Matter openly states anti-maleness as part of its agenda. How can someone argue against family without arguing against God (Yahweh) who designed the family? This all-out affront on the family is part of the agenda of BLM and other like organizations and is being enabled by evangelical churches and pastors.

When a pastor endorses BLM what are they supporting? You might want to ask your pastor some of the following questions in order to allow him to determine if he needs to repent:

- Where has Marxism, Socialism, or Communism ever made anyone's life better?
- Are the goals of BLM in line with the Gospel?
- What do you hope to get by supporting them?
- Will your organization or church get funding?
- Will you get awards and prestige?
- Do you love the Truth more than a lie?
- Do you fear God (Yahweh) more than man?

Remember, prosperity is the effect of Liberty. If you pursue Liberty, you get prosperity as a consequence. If you pursue prosperity, you will eventually lose both Liberty and prosperity since prosperity is not sustainable without Liberty.

Unity in Christ is a righteous goal. However, we cannot unite around a lie. Inter-faith dialogue is not about uniting around the Truth. Evangelical leaders promoting this new kind of slavery are using Dialectic deceit to pressure everyone to "have the conversation." These tyrannical promoters of slavery are NOT going to change their position. Their intention is to move the masses off a position of absolute truth and get them to unite with a lie. Evangelical pastors and church leaders who support the Social Justice movement are enabling Marxists to codify their anti-Biblical agenda into law. Since two men cannot walk together unless they be agreed, demanding that everyone come into agreement with an agenda that is systemically anti-Christ is asking them to worship false gods and idols.

Pastors must educate their congregants about the Dialectic Process so they are not prey to every sleight of mind trick used by Social Engineers to deceive and manipulate them into begging for their own enslavement.

No matter their label, tyrannical promoters of slavery will impose their relativistic agenda in an absolute authoritarian totalitarian way. When believers listen to the voices of hate and unforgiveness, the result can only be greater injustice. Why are so many people more willing to listen more to the voice of the tyrant than the voice of Liberty? God (Yahweh) has written the desire for Liberty on the fleshy tablet of every person's heart. Instead of human solutions, looking to the Kingdom for supernatural love is the only solution that will result in Liberty.
